

I see a serious problem with Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary ("Stolen Honor") days before the election. This is a clear example of the dangers of media monopoly caused by recent consolidations.

Sinclair uses public airwaves for free, and is legally obligated by law to serve the public interest. But the democratic good is subverted for monopolistic gain, when large companies control the airwaves.

Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen anti-monopolistic rules, not weaken them. The postcard license renewal process which disenfranchises the public should be eliminated. Thank you.
